

SUBSTITUTE ABSTRACT

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A device for measuring an electrocardiogram with a tapeless format and its method is provided with electrodes having a flat shape that are contacted by root portions between two fingers of a user's hands or by two fingers of each of the user's hands. The electrocardiogram can be measured directly by that contact, without adding any conductive liquid or gel material.